Call To Order
Gary Dielman, President called the meeting to order at 6:06 pm. The meeting was held in the Archive Meeting Room. Present at the meeting were Gary Dielman, Betty Palmer, Nellie Forrester, Della Steele, and Kyra Rohner-Ingram, Directors; Perry Stokes, Library Director and Christine Hawes, Business Manager.

Consent Agenda
Dielman asked if there were any changes or additions the consent agenda. Stokes had a couple changes. Under New Business, adding a new item (b) Paid Leave – Eclipse morning and renumbering item (b) to (c) Board Training. In addition, item (c)ii SDAO training will be tabled to the September meeting. There was already a meeting scheduled in the large meeting room, and with the board meeting being moved to the Archive Room there is insufficient space to share the training program. Gary Dielman had one change to the minutes. On page 4 under Election of 2017-18 Officers, in the first sentence “Dielman asked Palmer to preside over this part of the meeting.” There were no further corrections. Palmer made a motion to approve the Consent Agenda with the corrections stated; Rohner-Ingram seconded; the motion passed unanimously.

Conflicts or Potential Conflicts of Interest
Dielman asked for any potential conflicts of interest. There were no conflicts stated.

Open Forum for general public
Dielman stated for the record that there were no members of the public present and asked Stokes for correspondence. Stokes had one complaint to report. He received a copy of a letter addressed to the Mayor of Baker City and the City Manager. The complaint was from a patron who recently lost money in the pop machine in the library. The complainant claimed difficulty with getting a reimbursement from machine vendor. Stokes wrote a response for the patron, letting him know that the complaint was shared with the pop vendor and that future issues can be brought to Stokes’ attention. He explained that the library is an independent government agency, so seeking resolution from City and County representatives would be misguided.

REPORTS: Director
Friends – The Friends grossed about $2,800 from the Summer Book Sale which began Miner’s Jubilee weekend and ran a full week which was comparative to past years. The $5 Bag Sale the final week was successful.

Eclipse viewer sales have surpassed 3,000. The Friends sold out of their stock in late July. They raised about $2,100 from the sales. Stokes purchased another supply of 3,300 to meet demand the final week last month. This batch of viewers does have an ISO rating printed on them which is a new and recommended rating scheme. He has instructed the staff to assure patrons that the first batch was also properly rated, using the same viewer film, but were misprinted with an older rating template.

The Friends has a record high bank balance. Stokes funding request to purchase six outdoor garbage cans was approved. The pine wood units built by PRCE work crew years ago are in poor condition and need replacement. The new steel units will be purchased through a local company, Natural Structures, to match the style of bins used downtown.

Facilities – Stokes is still waiting on the numbers from Sid Johnson & Co for the soffit and gutter repair estimate. Our Facility Maintenance staff, Ed Adamson, is becoming anxious about the timeline for getting the funding approval from insurance and getting the project completed before winter weather begins. Adamson is working on ideas of things that can be done ahead to help the repair progress faster once it starts. They dread the prospect of the roof facing another hard winter in its present condition.

The Huntington Branch Library repair work on the ADA ramp is completed. An asphalt surface was laid over the top of the existing surface. Adamson is pleased with the result and feels confident it will be durable. Staff reports positive patron feedback on the repair. However, there have also been an increased number of violations of skateboarding on the new ramp.

The Huntington Branch Library also received an upgrade to the Internet service for the branch that was installed late July significantly increasing the bandwidth. Shortly after, it was discovered that the telephone service had inadvertently been disconnected as part of the work order to disconnect the DSL lines that were no longer needed. With service restoration, the branch did retain the same phone number -- happily.

The Bookmobile was involved in an accident the morning of August 1. The bookmobile damaged the drive up window counter and book drop while exiting the parking lot. An insurance claim was made for the bookmobile damage that will be taken to a body shop for repair. Facility Maintenance staff was able to repair the damage to the building at the drive-up window area. Stokes arrived back to work that morning, after reviewing policy, he took the staff person to have drug tested – that came back clear. The incident was a judgement error.

Stokes had a couple of additional items to report in this area. He and Adamson have discussed new signage for no smoking/no vaping areas, dismount zone for bicyclists to walk them past the back of the library; he passed around examples of the new signage and described placement of the signs. There was some discussion on creating a “Dismount Zone.” Rohner-Ingram asked if it was a City Ordinance to which Stokes replied that it was not. However, because the walkway is on Library property, the library could add that restriction. There is a City Ordinance about dismounting wheeled vehicles that applies to the city park although it appears to be not well-enforced.

The picnic table that has been located on the south side of the building was found broken this morning. It appeared damage was primarily due to rot. Stokes is looking at replacing it with a heavy plastic table, if at all. He is not convinced one is necessary in that location.

Outreach – the bookmobile was in the Miners’ Jubilee parade. Staff Donna Valentine drove and had several of her grandchildren volunteer to dress up in costume and pass out candy. Stokes was riding along to manage distribution of the candy. The Bookmobile group entries were unaware of the tragic Dylan Thomas accident until completing the parade route. They were deeply distressed by the news. In light of the accident, Stokes intends to implement safety precautions at future events. For the next couple years, he recommends adult staff only participate to represent the library. Rohner-Ingram suggested having waivers for volunteers, especially children, even if they are only riding on the bookmobile. Stokes said that the library sent a gift of books on grieving to the Thomas family that was paid for by the Friends along with a note.

Programs – The Summer Reading Program wrapped up on August 2. He had not reviewed the participation assessment with Children’s Services staff. This was the first year that online registration was available. He will report on that at a future meeting.

The Eclipse Event is on Monday, August 21. The Baker Library will be closed for the morning, opening at 1:00pm that day. The Richland and Sumpter branches will be closed. Extra hours and staff are planned for Huntington and Baker branches. All branches have been supplied with an abundance of restroom supplies.
For the Eclipse Event, Stokes decided against renting out parking spaces primarily due to insurance concerns. The usage of the Baker library north parking lot will be left open on a first-come-first-served basis. Stokes discussed the matter with Special District insurance representatives and learned the District would face significant liability exposure by engaging in rental activities for the space on its property. SDAO recommended not doing it. The library will be open at 1:00 pm, anticipating facilities and services, such as bathrooms and WiFi being in high demand.

The library is preparing to host an OPB reporting team for the Eclipse Event serving as the headquarters for the team. Jim White will set the team up with a secure Internet connection to ensure their content is delivered without interruption from tourist traffic.

Personnel – IT Manager Jim White reduced his hours from full-time to 32-hours per week effective July 1. He is now working Monday-Thursday. He requested this reduction for health issues. The balance of his funding was used to retain an IT Intern, Bryan Ames, working 2 days a week. He is regularly scheduled on Wednesday and Friday. He works one day with Jim, and one day on his own. Staff have been pleased with his quality of work.

Security – On Tuesday August 8, Baker City Police officers discovered a wanted suspect in the library. The individual was apprehended after attempting to escape police. In another incident, an individual was arrested for trespassing in the library after closing time. During Miners Jubilee, one of the cleaning staff neglected to secure a door. A person entered the library and passed out in the reference room, apparently intoxicated. Baker City Police responded rapidly to the motion alarm and removed the individual.

<td>The General Fund received tax turnovers on August 1 of $3,848.98 all prior years’ property taxes. Palmer surmised it was from real estate sales. Beginning cash has been posted to the P&amp;L report for the fiscal year operations. Note that the beginning cash is $14,686 more than budgeted. As previously discussed, Stokes used some of those funds to have the large cottonwood tree removed and other needed trimming done. The budget numbers have also been added to all of the funds for this report. Personnel services, highlighting PERS expense. The August PERS paid was</td>

$9,347.11, less the amount reimbursed by Sage and employee withholdings, the General Fund liability of $6,046.72, compared to the monthly average for last fiscal year of $4,480.98; that is a 30% increase ($1,565). We have allowed for that increase in the budget, but thought the board would like a report on the increase.

Materials & Services, Books Electronic Subscriptions includes checks to AtoZ Database, $1,064, Tutor.com $2,530, OCLC $312.71 WebDewey subscription; and a small order from Ingram books $1,348.05. Building & Grounds includes a check to Valley Paving of $1,000 for the Huntington Branch handicap ramp repair, Orbit Oregon LLC $951.65 for second eclipse viewers order, and MMW $263 for A/C unit motor which Adamson installed. Computer maintenance checks include a subscription for Open DNS Cisco Umbrella $968, and the Tech Programs line is the Robotics Club startup expenses paid on the visa including 4 laptops $595, instructor set $417, 2 programmable construction sets $651 and other small supplies totaling $1,774.84. The program is anticipated to start in September. IT Manager and Intern are coordinating efforts with the junior high teachers to mirror the science program and hopefully add something to what is happening there. Vehicle maintenance expenses include bookmobile repairs $474 at Mike Bork Auto and pickup maintenance of $244.84. Nothing unusual to highlight in the other expense lines.

Other Funds beginning cash has been posted by department to the P&L report. Activity includes Amazon book sales of $481.45 and related expenses of postage $79.16 and commissions $144.82.

Sage Fund beginning cash was considerably more than budgeted primarily due to the vacant Sage Tech Support position. Sage notable checks include Orbis Cascade $41,278; this is the backbone courier service for the Sage System. The courier is historically paid at the start of the fiscal year. There is also a check to Equinox for $2,500, the annual Evergreen Tech Support subscription.

Other items of interest. The General Fund June 30 ending Accounts Payable will increase from the anticipated $14,000 previously reported, to over $22,000 due to additional services in June. The two largest items contributing to the increase were the tree removal $6,100 and furniture cleaning $1,947.

Hawes did a quick review of cash flow projecting that the Library District will not need a tax anticipation note again this year. The current funds at August 15 of $124,800 will carry us through September. October requirements estimated at $82,000 can be borrowed from the Other Funds which has considerably larger balance. The short term Interfund loan will be paid back in November. The Director’s appreciated the update on cash flow projection. An updated report will be included at the next meeting.

The audit will begin earlier this year. Guyer & Associates has contacted Hawes and scheduled delivery of the initial documentation on September 1. Hawes will likely deliver the boxes a day or two earlier. The accounting firm often gets bogged down in the large audits they do; she is looking forward to getting a jump on the District’s audit this year. A lot of the information is already boxed and ready. The confirmation letter should come next week.

The check packets were handed back after having been signed and check lists approved for three funds.

New Business:

Staff Use of Collections Policy

Stokes he schedules policies to be reviewed regularly simply to keep them current. He has a small change to present on the Staff Use of Collection Materials; adding a few words in the last line of the fourth paragraph for clarification. With no discussion, Rohner-Ingram made a motion to approve the policy as amended; Forrester seconded; motion passed unanimous.

Paid Leave – Eclipse morning

Stokes said that this decision is made by the administration but he wants to bring it to the attention of the board. District policy allows paid leave due to inclement weather. Palmer said that the School District does pay employees if closed due to bad weather. Stokes said the options were for those affected to use vacation leave or make up the hours. He feels this event can be categorized similar to a natural disaster and wants to extend paid leave for the hours closed from 8:00am to 1:00pm only to those that would have worked during that time. With the Directors authorization he will go ahead with the plan. Dielman said this doesn’t require a motion, but rather a consensus among the directors. Everyone agreed to the closure and paid leave.

Further discussion on the Eclipse closure. Forrester asked why not close altogether for the day. Stokes replied that he expects there will be high demand for library services later in the day. People will be needing public computers, Internet, printing, restrooms, and just a space to be. It is not a Federal holiday. Giving a half day paid leave, he felt, was sufficient.
Stokes said that another Holiday has recently come to his attention – Indigenous Peoples Day which is the same day as Columbus Day. It is now recognized by the U.N. He passed around a resolution adopted in 2016 by the City of Hood River recognizing the day. Stokes offered to present a similar resolution at the next meeting. The board welcomed the proposal.

ALA State of American Libraries

Stokes presented an American Library Association report titled State of America’s Libraries 2017. It describes trends in libraries. This year one of the biggest topics is fake news and how to determine legitimate authoritative information. Stokes noted that maker’s clubs continue to be a popular feature though the report doesn’t much cover that this year. It also discusses the diversity in collections and related challenges. Dielman said he looked at the 10 most challenged books and was surprised by a couple listed. Stokes reported to the ALA and OLA on the patron that was hiding videos as a type of censorship. He anticipates that information will be in the national report. He recommended everyone read the article.

SDAO Board Training Video

Stokes had hoped to present an SDAO short training video to the board but with needing to move the meeting to a smaller room, this is tabled to next month.

Next Meeting Date

The next Board meeting will be September 11, 2017 at 6:00pm. Palmer and Steele said they will not be at the September meetings; both will be out of town. Dielman asked the others to confirm a quorum. Both Forrester and Rohner-Ingram intend to be at the meeting.

Adjourn

The meeting was adjourned at 7:02 pm.

Respectfully submitted,

Perry Stokes,
Secretary to the Board

TPO - Material Deterioration (Emergency)
Quantity: 100 LF
Deficiency:
Roof membrane has deteriorated and scrim is showing due to time and weather.

We believe that due to the harsh winter conditions this membrane has accelerated and deterioration we recommended the outside wall of this roof section get a 2 foot strip of new membrane welded to the existing membrane for a long-term solution

Corrective Action:
Clean area and apply a membrane patch or install new membrane per industry standards to ensure water tightness.
We will clean the wall area and install a 2 foot strip of 45 mill TPO heat welded to the existing membrane

Estimated Repair Cost:
$1,800.00

TPO - Material Deterioration (Emergency)

General - Elite Rooftop Maintenance Program (Remedial)

Quantity: 2 EA

Deficiency:
We recommend our Elite Rooftop Maintenance program to help extend the life of your roof.

Corrective Action:
Each Elite Roof Maintenance program includes annual, bi-annual, or quarterly roof inspections throughout the year. Following each roof inspection, our customers receive a Roof Inspection Report for each property enrolled in the program. This report, complete with photographs, explains the general condition of the roof, identifies repairs made, and notes any problems that need to be addressed.

Our ERM program is designed to maintain and extend the life of your roof. Basic repair and service items are handled by our technicians during regularly scheduled inspections. Our experts will also provide a plan for periodic upgrades over the life of your roof to keep it in the best condition and avoid a premature and costly re-roof. Our 3-year and 5-year budgeting tools will help you plan ahead for major improvements. If unexpected roof problems occur, our technicians are on-call 24/7, and you will receive priority scheduling as an ERM customer.

Price is per visit

Note: Roof repairs are a solution to existing water leakage problems and does not equal installation of a new roof system, therefore there is no implied warranty for the repaired area. Climate conditions, thermal expansion, roof age, and extent of repairs will result in a variable rate of longevity of repairs. Maintenance is required for all warranty validations.
Resolution No. 2017-18.003

Recognizing Indigenous Peoples’ Day

Sep 11 2017

Baker County Library District hereby declares the second Monday in October as Indigenous Peoples’ Day and encourages other institutions to recognize the Day; reaffirming the District’s commitment to promote the knowledge of, prosperity and well-being of Baker County’s American Indian, Alaska Native and Indigenous community.

WHEREAS, Baker County Library District recognizes that the Indigenous People of the lands that would later become known as the Americas have occupied these lands since time immemorial; and

WHEREAS, the District recognizes the fact that Baker County’s taxing jurisdiction is built upon the homelands and villages and traditional use areas of the Native Americans of this region; and

WHEREAS, the District recognizes that much of indigenous people’s lands and property were obtained through disreputable policies and protocols, which included exploitative and broken treaties, war, forced removal, and concentration on reservations.

WHEREAS, the District has a responsibility to oppose the systematic racism towards Indigenous Peoples of the United States, which perpetuates high rates of poverty and income inequality, exacerbating disproportionate health, education, and social crises; and

WHEREAS, Indigenous Peoples’ Day was first proposed in 1977 by a delegation of Native Nations to the United Nations sponsored International Conference on Discrimination against Indigenous Populations in the Americas; and

WHEREAS, the United States endorsed the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (the “Declaration”) on Dec. 16, 2010, and the Declaration recognizes that “indigenous peoples have suffered from historic injustices as a result of, inter alia, their colonization and dispossession of their lands, territories and resources;” and

WHEREAS, Article 15 of the Declaration recognizes the right of indigenous peoples “to the dignity and diversity of their cultures, traditions, histories and aspirations which shall be appropriately reflected in education and public information” and places an obligation on States to “take effective measures, in consultation and cooperation with the indigenous peoples concerned, to combat prejudice and eliminate discrimination and to promote tolerance, understanding and good relations among indigenous peoples and all other segments of society”; and
Recognizing Indigenous Peoples’ Day
Sep 11 2017

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, the District shall recognize Indigenous Peoples’ Day on the second Monday in October; and

Walla Walla Treaty Council 1855

By Cliff Trafzer

The treaty council held at Waialetpu (Place of the Rye Grass) in the Walla Walla Valley in May and June of 1855 forever changed the lives of Native Americans living in north-central and eastern Oregon. The fate of the Cayuse, Umatilla, and Walla Walla Indians who lived in that part of Oregon became closely tied to that of the Nez Perce, Palouse, and Yakama, who also participated in the treaty council. None of the tribes requested the council or wanted to surrender their lands, but representatives of the United States government championed the grand council and representatives of the tribes attended to protect their people and tribal interests.

By 1855, Oregon Indians had some knowledge of American policies, which included written treaties, conscribed boundaries, and surrender of traditional Indian lands. The Cayuse, Umatilla, and Walla Walla people attended the Walla Walla Council to listen, learn, and voice their position about the sacredness of the earth that held the bones of their ancestors. They attended to protect their secular and sacred interest, not to surrender their homelands, sovereignty, or way of life.

By 1855, the government of the United States had a great deal of experience dealing with American Indians. Over the years, the government had developed an Indian policy based on the nation's experiences with wars, treaties, boundaries, and trade. The United States continually negotiated with tribes in the best interest of the government, claiming millions of acres of Native land. When the terms of one agreement no longer suited the government, agents renegotiated the treaties to open more lands.

By the time of the Walla Walla Council, government agents had divided the tribes in the East, destroyed Native economies, forcefully removed thousands of Indian people to the trans-Mississippi West, created an Indian Territory, and opened millions of acres of Native traditional lands to non-Natives.

Oregon Superintendent of Indian Affairs Joel Palmer and Washington Territorial Governor Isaac Stevens met with tribes during the Walla Walla Council to negotiate treaties and open Indian lands to white settlement. When Palmer and Stevens met with the Walla Walla, Cayuse, and Umatilla, tribal leaders first proposed that there would be no separate reservation for the their people. They based their arguments on Indian law, or Tamanwit, which establishes the sacred relationship between humans and elements of the environment. Tamanwit also creates the proper relationships among humans and formed the foundation of Indian arguments made at the council.

She-Ca-Yah, or Five Crows, of the Cayuse explained to Palmer and Stevens that the "father in heaven" had "made all the earth" and at the time of creation "made us of the earth on this earth." Cayuse Chief Stikus explained that he did not "own" the earth, mountains, or rivers because these were gifts of creation to his people. Chief Stikus asked the Americans to think of the land as if it was their mother: "If your mothers were here in this country who gave you birth, suckled you and while you were sucking some person came and took your mother and left you alone and sold your mother, how would you feel then?" He explained that the earth was the mother of his people, the mother that gave and sustained life.

The Cayuse, Umatilla, and Walla Walla people lived off the bounty of the earth. For generations they had gathered nutritious roots, nuts, and seeds. They had fished and hunted, basing their economies on seasonal rounds through the mountains, valleys, and plateaus of the inland Northwest. Cayuse Chief Tauitau, or Young Chief, wondered what the earth would say to the Americans. He explained that the Creator had made all the plants and animals from which his people lived and given them their names. The Creator would not want the people to surrender the lands.

Palmer and Stevens avoided addressing the Indians' position and pushed their agenda of concluding three treaties and establishing reserves for the Umatilla, Yakama, and Nez Perce people. Palmer warned that white settlers would "steal your horses and cattle" if the Indians did not agree to boundaries. In their camps, the Indian leadership met to discuss the treaty, and they reluctantly decided to make an agreement with Stevens and Palmer.
In 1855, the sovereign nations of the Walla Walla, Umatilla, and Cayuse secured a reservation of 510,000 acres in northwestern Oregon. Through the Walla Walla, Cayuse, and Umatilla Treaty of June 9, 1855, the tribes lost 6.4 million acres of land and billions of dollars in resources. When government surveyors marked the land, they included only 245,000 acres within the reservation boundaries, a source of future land issues. The tribes reserved their right to hunt, fish, and gather at all usual and accustomed areas on and off the reservation, just as Stevens had promised in his oral presentation and recorded in the treaty proceedings.

The Walla Walla Council was a watershed in Oregon's history, and it triggered a major war between many Oregon and Washington tribes and the government. Over time, the Umatilla reservation became the homeland of several families from diverse tribes. The Walla Walla Council and the treaty that created the reservation have significant implications today for the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation, guaranteeing the tribe's legal status and its government-to-government relationship with the United States.

City of Hood River, Oregon
Resolution No. 2016-30

Declare the second Monday in October as indigenous Peoples' Day in the City of Hood River and encourage other institutions to recognize the Day; reaffirming the City's commitment to promote the prosperity and well-being of Hood River's American Indian, Alaska Native and Indigenous community (Resolution)

WHEREAS, the City of Hood River recognizes that the Indigenous People of the lands that would later become known as the Americas have occupied these lands since time immemorial; and

WHEREAS, the City recognizes the fact that Hood River is built upon the homelands and villages and traditional use areas of the Native Americans of this region; and

WHEREAS, the City of Hood River has a responsibility to oppose the systematic racism towards Indigenous Peoples of the United States, which perpetuates high rates of poverty and income inequality, exacerbating disproportionate health, education, and social crises; and

WHEREAS, Indigenous Peoples' Day was first proposed in 1977 by a delegation of Native Nations to the United Nations sponsored International Conference on Discrimination against Indigenous Populations in the Americas; and

WHEREAS, the United States endorsed the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (the "Declaration") on December 16, 2010 and the Declaration recognizes that "indigenous peoples have suffered from historic injustices as a result of, inter alia, their colonization and dispossession of their lands, territories and resources"; and

WHEREAS, Article 15 of the Declaration recognizes the right of indigenous peoples "to the dignity and diversity of their cultures, traditions, histories and aspirations which shall be appropriately reflected in education and public information" and places an obligation on States to "take effective measures, in consultation and cooperation with the indigenous peoples concerned, to combat prejudice and eliminate discrimination and to promote tolerance, understanding and good relations among indigenous peoples and all other segments of society"; and

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, the City of Hood River shall recognize Indigenous Peoples' Day on the second Monday in October; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Indigenous Peoples' Day shall be used to reflect upon the ongoing struggles of Indigenous People on this land, and to celebrate the thriving culture and value that Indigenous Peoples add to our city; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City of Hood River encourages other businesses, organizations, and public institutions to recognize Indigenous Peoples' Day,

Approved and Effective this 26 day of September 2016.

COLUMBUS DAY OR INDIGENOUS PEOPLES DAY?

Columbus Day is a federal holiday that commemorates Christopher Columbus’ landing in the Americas (the “New World”) on October 12, 1492. It became an official holiday in 1937. For many, the holiday honors Columbus’ achievements, celebrates Italian-American culture and heritage and pays tribute to patriotism. According to a 2013 poll, 58% of Americans still believe the U.S. should honor the Italian explorer. At the same time, throughout history, Columbus Day and Christopher Columbus have generated much controversy. In recent years, many alternatives to the holiday have emerged. The main sources of controversy involve Columbus and the other Europeans’ interactions with the indigenous people that led to hundreds of years of: (1) violence and slavery, (2) forced assimilation and conversion of Native American people to Christianity and (3) the introduction of a host of new diseases that would have dramatic long-term effects on Native American people.

In 1977, the idea of replacing Columbus Day with a day commemorating the indigenous people of North America was proposed by the International Conference on Discrimination against Indigenous Populations in the Americas, sponsored by the United Nations. Fourteen years later, in 1992, the city council in Berkeley, California declared October 12 as a “Day of Solidarity with Indigenous People” and symbolically renamed Columbus Day “Indigenous Peoples’ Day” beginning in 1992. Berkeley was the first city to do so. Since then, several states, cities and universities have followed suit.

This lesson provides an opportunity for students to learn more about Columbus Day, reflect on why some cities and states have renamed it Indigenous Peoples Day and consider their own points of view on the topic by engaging in a writing project to express their perspective.

See these additional ADL resources: Curriculum Connections “Lewis and Clark: The Unheard Voices,” Current Events Classroom “Should Washington’s NFL Team Change Their Name?” and Table Talk: Family Conversations about Sports, Mascots and Bias.

Grade Level: grades 9–12

Time: 45–60 minutes

Common Core Anchor Standards: Reading, Writing, Speaking and Listening

Learning Objectives:

- Students will understand why certain states and cities have changed the holiday of Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day (or in a few cases, Native Americans Day).
- Students will reflect on primary source material (proclamations and resolutions) enacted by local governments to gain insight into their thinking about why they changed the holiday’s name.
- Students will consider their own points of view in writing as to whether they think the holiday's name should be changed or not.

Compelling Question: Should we change Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day?

Materials:
- “How Columbus Sailed Into U.S. History, Thanks To Italians” (NPR, October 14, 2013, www.npr.org/sections/codeswitch/2013/10/14/232120128/how-columbus-sailed-into-u-s-history-thanks-to-italians), one copy for each student
- Proclamations (divide six proclamations evenly between small groups, each student receives a copy of their group’s assigned proclamation)
- Proclamations Worksheet (one for each student)
- (Optional) Map of the United States to be displayed for whole class viewing (see Information Sharing activity)

Vocabulary:
Review the following vocabulary words and make sure students know their meanings. (See ADL’s “Glossary of Education Terms.”)

- abolish
- activists
- ancestral
- benevolent
- delegation
- descendants
- embattled
- flourished
- glorification

INFORMATION SHARING

1. Ask students: What is Columbus Day? What do you know about the holiday? What have you learned in school about Columbus Day and Christopher Columbus? Do you know of another name for the holiday?

   Explain to students that some states and cities have re-named the holiday of Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day. Ask: Do you know any cities or states that have done that? Why do you think they renamed the holiday?

2. Share some or all of the following information:
   - Columbus Day is a federal holiday that commemorates Christopher Columbus's landing in the Americas (the "New World") on October 12, 1492 and is observed in the United States, and in parts of Canada and Puerto Rico. It became an official holiday in 1937.

- According to History, the main source of controversy involves Columbus and the other Europeans’ interactions with the indigenous people that led to hundreds of years of: (1) the use of violence and slavery, (2) the forced assimilation and conversion of Native American people to Christianity and (3) the introduction of a host of new diseases that would have dramatic long-term effects on Native American people. Over the years, historians have uncovered extensive evidence of the damage wreaked by Columbus which has led to protests at Columbus Day celebrations and parades, an outcry about studying him in schools and calls for changing the name of the federal holiday.

- Throughout history, Columbus Day and Christopher Columbus himself have generated a great deal of controversy. Native Americans and other groups have protested the celebration of an event that spurred oppression and genocide and which led to the demise of Native American people and culture. Millions died through infectious diseases brought by European settlers as well as warfare between Native Americans and colonists. In addition, Columbus forced native people into slavery and he allegedly imposed barbaric forms of punishment including torture.

- In 1977, the idea of replacing Columbus Day with a day commemorating the indigenous of people of North America came out of the International Conference on Discrimination against Indigenous Populations in the Americas, sponsored by the United Nations. Fourteen years later, in 1992, the city council in Berkeley, California declared October 12 a “Day of Solidarity with Indigenous People” and symbolically renamed Columbus Day “Indigenous Peoples’ Day” beginning in 1992. Since then, several states, cities and towns have followed suit.

- For many, the holiday honors Columbus’ achievements and also celebrates Italian-American culture and heritage. Columbus Day was proclaimed in 1937 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt who was lobbied heavily from the Knights of Columbus consisting largely of Italian-American people. The efforts to rename or eliminate the Columbus Day holiday in various cities and states has been met with strong resistance from the Italian American community, who feel that Christopher Columbus is an important figure in their heritage, some even calling such activities “anti-Italian American.” According to a 2013 poll, 58% of Americans still believe the U.S. should honor the Italian explorer.

3. Tell students that you are going to read aloud the names of some of the towns, cities and states who have renamed Columbus Day to Indigenous Peoples Day. If you have a map available, point out the cities/states on the map.

CITIES
- Albuquerque, NM
- Alpena, MI
- Anadarko, OK
- Asheville, NC
- Belfast, ME
- Berkeley, CA
- Bexar County, TX
- Boulder, CO
- Cambridge, MA
- Carborro, NC
- Corvallis, OR
- Denver, CO
- Durango, CO
- Grand Rapids, MN
- Lawrence, KS
- Lewiston, NY
- Olympia, WA

- Portland, OR
- St. Paul, MN
- Seattle, WA
- Traverse City MI

STATES
- South Dakota (Native Americans’ Day)
- Alaska
- Hawaii (Discoverers’ Day)
- Vermont
READING ACTIVITY

1. Distribute a copy of the article “How Columbus Sailed Into U.S. History, Thanks To Italians” and give students 15 minutes to read it silently. (You may also want to assign it for homework the night before you conduct the lesson.)

2. Engage students in a discussion by asking some or all of the following questions:
   - What did you learn that you didn’t know before?
   - How and why was Columbus Day originally established?
   - Why is Columbus Day particularly important to the Italian-American community?
   - In what ways was Columbus Day viewed as a tribute to patriotism?
   - What led to the 20th Century criticism of Columbus’ life and legacy?
   - What are the reasons for and against continuing to celebrate Columbus Day?

3. If time permits, have students also read the article “More cities celebrating ‘Indigenous Peoples Day’ amid effort to abolish Columbus Day” and discuss it briefly.

SMALL GROUP WORK: PROCLAMATIONS

1. Divide students into six small groups; each group will be assigned one proclamation among the six available: Alaska, Denver, Corvallis, Albuquerque, Seattle and Lewiston. Distribute a copy of the Proclamation Worksheet to each student and one copy of each assigned group’s proclamation to each student based on their group (e.g. each student in the Alaska group should have the Alaska proclamation). Explain to students that a proclamation is a public or official announcement of an important matter.

2. After students are situated in their groups, have one student read the proclamation aloud as others follow along. Students can jot down notes while listening.

3. Using the Proclamation Worksheet, have students discuss and respond to the following questions about the proclamation, recording their notes and responses on the worksheet.
   - How did you feel as the proclamation/resolution was being read?
   - What is the purpose of the proclamation?
   - What relevant background information is shared?
   - What is the perspective of the proclamation?
   - What is being criticized in the proclamation?
   - What is being celebrated in the proclamation?
   - How do you think celebrations and school commemorations changed/may change as a result?

4. Have students come back to the large group. Each small group will make a brief presentation about their proclamation; one student from the group will read aloud the proclamation and another person from the group will share a summary of their conversation and responses to the questions.

5. Engage students in a brief discussion by asking the following question:
   - What did you learn that you didn’t know before?
• How were the proclamations similar and how were they different?
• Why do you think these cities, towns and states made the decision to change the name of the holiday?

WRITING ACTIVITY

1. Have students consider everything they have learned and put their thoughts and opinions into writing. Provide them with two options:
   • If they believe the name of the holiday should be changed, write their own proclamation (for their school, community or state). They can use some of the language and format from the proclamations they read but they should make sure to use most of their own words, thoughts and information about their school, community or state.
   • If they believe the name of the holiday should remain as Columbus Day, write a letter to an official (Principal, Mayor, or Governor) or a letter to the editor of a local paper with their thoughts, opinions and ideas as to why it should not be changed.

2. Provide time in class for students to begin working on their writing projects and assign the editing and completion of it for homework. When the writing assignments are due, have students share them with the class.

CLOSING

Do a brief go round with students sharing one thing they learned during the lesson.

Indigenous Peoples' Day Gains Momentum As A Replacement For Columbus Day

October 7, 2016 · 2:35 PM ET

BILL CHAPPELL

The state of Vermont and the city of Phoenix have joined the list of places that now call the second Monday in October Indigenous Peoples' Day, in a show of momentum for honoring indigenous people on the federal holiday that's named for Christopher Columbus.
Phoenix is now the largest U.S. city to recognize Indigenous Peoples' Day, according to member station KJZZ, which says the move came on a unanimous vote. Other cities have adopted similar laws in recent years, including Seattle and Minneapolis.

The city council of Denver, which observed Indigenous Peoples' Day last year under a temporary proclamation, embraced a permanent observance this week — a development that's particularly striking because Denver is where the idea for a holiday honoring Christopher Columbus first took root.

"Colorado became the first state to observe Columbus Day as an official holiday," according to The Denver Post, "and in 1909, Denver held its first Columbus Day parade."

Denver's move comes two months after Boulder's city council declared that Indigenous Peoples' Day will be celebrated on every Columbus Day holiday.

But the push to rename the Columbus holiday is being turned back in some areas: This week, the Cincinnati City Council rejected an Indigenous Peoples' Day proclamation, for instance.

Although Columbus Day has been a federal holiday since the 1930s, more than half of U.S. states don't mandate a paid day off for the holiday. As of 2015, only 23 states gave employees a paid day off for the day.

For years, only one state — South Dakota — officially designated the second Monday in October to honor the people and cultures that thrived in North America before Europeans' arrival.

Alaska's governor adopted Indigenous Peoples Day last year; we'll note that the state, like Hawaii and Oregon, had previously not recognized Columbus Day.

As of this week, Vermont also recognizes the second Monday of October as Indigenous People's Day, after Gov. Peter Shumlin issued an executive proclamation. In it, Shumlin noted that Vermont was founded on land that was long inhabited by the Abenaki people.
South Dakota adopted Native American Day back in the 1990s; California observes a day by the same name, but it does so on the fourth Friday in September. Late last month, Nevada's governor established American Indian Day in the state; it was observed on Sept. 23.

As for the reasons behind the push for change, here's what Lakota activist Bill Means told Minnesota Public Radio back in 2014, when Minneapolis adopted Indigenous Peoples' Day:

"We discovered Columbus, lost on our shores, sick, destitute, and wrapped in rags. We nourished him to health, and the rest is history," Means told MPR. "He represents the mascot of American colonialism in the Western Hemisphere. And so it is time that we change a myth of history."
Indigenous Peoples Day, Columbus Day, or Both?

Many indigenous people have protested the commemoration of Columbus Day. In the United States, Columbus Day is celebrated on October 12, and is a federal holiday. When the United Nations in 1992 moved to celebrate the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus’ landing in America, many Indigenous Peoples protested and offered instead a proposal to celebrate Indigenous Peoples Day.

In the 1990s, many Indigenous Peoples around the world were already engaged in the UN discussions that led to the ultimate acceptance of the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. The protests were strongly made and the UN responded with promises to form an international Indigenous Peoples Day, which is now commemorated on August 9. Unfortunately, the UN’s International Day of the World’s Indigenous Peoples is not well-known or widely celebrated.

Indigenous Peoples still protest Columbus Day, especially when the commemoration does not acknowledge the presence of Indigenous Peoples. The argument that Columbus discovered America is rejected by Indigenous Peoples and many intellectuals. Indigenous rights movements in many countries say Columbus is responsible for opening the door to 500 years of political and cultural repression. Some indigenous nations and anti-Columbus conferences proposed celebrating 500 years of resistance, and called upon Indigenous Peoples to unite and seek liberation. The UN countered with the creation of International Decades of the World’s Indigenous People, which contributed to the establishment of the UN Permanent Forum on Indigenous Peoples and the Declaration.

Some cities, states, and countries have changed the celebration of Columbus Day to a commemoration honoring solidarity and recognition of Indigenous Peoples. In many U.S. cities, like Berkeley, California, there was considerable consensus and the change was made with relatively little resistance. In other cities and states, resistance to changing Columbus Day comes from the Italian community and the Knights of Columbus. Some cities have agreed to celebrate Columbus Day and Indigenous Peoples Day, while others have rejected the idea of Indigenous Peoples Day.
Recently in Los Angeles, a proposal to change the Columbus Day city holiday to Indigenous Peoples Day was tabled by the city council. Currently, Los Angeles honors the federal holiday and employees are given the day as paid vacation. The city estimates that its costs for honoring Columbus Day through worker compensation and other activities are more than $20 million. The city was not in a position to create another holiday, so the discussion focused on replacing Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day, or celebrating them together.

There was organized and strong opposition from the Italian community, who want to retain Columbus Day because it has become a major event celebrating Italian culture, heritage, and identity. The Knights of Columbus, an auxiliary Catholic organization, argued that they were instrumental in creating Columbus Day as an official U.S. federal holiday, and that it had little to do with migration and ethnic identity. Indian community members testified about the affects of colonialism on Indian peoples and the thousands of years that Indians had lived in California and in the Los Angeles Valley.

Today, hundreds of thousands of Indigenous Peoples from throughout the Americas and the world live in Los Angeles, which may be one of the most culturally and ethnically diverse cities in the world. The creation of an Indigenous Peoples Day would underscore the extraordinary diversity of the Los Angeles area.

The strong Italian tradition and acceptance of Columbus Day into their heritage should also be respected. Indigenous Peoples lived in a world of many indigenous cultures, and each was honored and respected. Indigenous Peoples are willing to participate in contemporary national events, but on their own terms, and not at the sacrifice of their own traditions. Today, we have the opportunity to unite within city, state and federal governments to create a holiday that recognizes the heritages of Indigenous Peoples and our Italian brothers and sisters.
The Los Angeles City Council voted Wednesday to eliminate Columbus Day from the city calendar, siding with activists who view the explorer as a symbol of genocide for native peoples in North America and elsewhere.

Over the objections of Italian American civic groups, the council made the second Monday in October a day in L.A. to commemorate “indigenous, aboriginal and native people.” It replaces a holiday that served as a touchstone for Italian Americans, marking the arrival of Christopher Columbus in the Caribbean.

Italian Americans voiced anguish over the proposal, telling council members it would erase a portion of their heritage. Some said they supported the creation of Indigenous Peoples Day as long as it is held on a different
“On behalf of the Italian community, we want to celebrate with you,” said Ann Potenza, president of Federated Italo-Americans of Southern California, speaking in a room packed with Native American activists. “We just don’t want it to be at the expense of Columbus Day.”

That idea was unacceptable to Chrissie Castro, vice chairwoman of the Los Angeles City-County Native American Indian Commission. She argued that city lawmakers needed to “dismantle a state-sponsored celebration of genocide of indigenous peoples.”

“To make us celebrate on any other day would be a further injustice,” Castro said.

The day will remain a paid holiday for city employees, regardless of the name.

This gesture of replacing Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day is a very small step in apologizing and in making amends.

— Councilman Mike Bonin, great-grandson of Italian immigrants

Wednesday’s debate had been driven by two men with different visions of how to replace Columbus Day, which was established as a federal holiday in 1937. Councilman Mitch O’Farrell, a member of the Wyandotte Nation tribe in Oklahoma, argued that the replacement of Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day would provide “restorative justice.”

Councilman Joe Buscaino, a first-generation Italian American raised in San Pedro, had sought to replace Columbus Day with a different name, one that celebrates “all of the diverse cultures in the city.” Buscaino said many had forgotten the prejudice faced by Italian Americans in the United States — and asked his colleagues not to “cure one offense with another.”

“All of our individual cultures matter,” said Buscaino, who represents neighborhoods from Watts to San Pedro.

Buscaino and three colleagues — Gil Cedillo, David Ryu and Mitchell Englander — pushed an alternative plan to hold Indigenous Peoples Day on Aug. 9, a date selected by the United Nations for recognizing native peoples. The council rejected that proposal on an 11-4 vote.

Councilman Mike Bonin, the great-grandson of Italian immigrants, said he felt genuinely pained at having to disagree with Buscaino. But he argued that Columbus Day diminishes the accomplishments of his ancestors, who came to the U.S. to “build something and not to destroy something.”
“This gesture of replacing Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day is a very small step in apologizing and in making amends,” said Bonin, who represents coastal neighborhoods from Westchester to Pacific Palisades.

The council’s vote comes at a time of heated discussion over the nation’s holidays and historic monuments.

Activists have been pushing for the removal of statues honoring military leaders who served the Confederacy. Two weeks ago, New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio called for a 90-day review of “all symbols of hate” on city property.

Several U.S. cities — including Seattle, Albuquerque and Denver — have already replaced Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day.

O’Farrell, who represents an Echo Park-to-Hollywood district, said his plan for Indigenous Peoples Day also establishes Oct. 12, the date of Columbus’ arrival in 1492, as Italian American Heritage Day at City Hall. It would not be a day off for paid employees.

Replacing Columbus Day, O’Farrell said, would right a “historical wrong.”

“We are not creating a racial conflict,” he said. “We are ending one.”

The council replaced Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day on a 14-1 vote, with Buscaino opposed. The move followed a fractious hearing, with Italian Americans and Native Americans cheering and jeering at different moments.

One opponent of the holiday name change called it “a slap in the face” to Italian Americans. Another called it racially divisive.

John Giovanni Corda, a Beverly Hills resident who identified himself as Sardinian, told the audience to “shut your mouths” after they started heckling. He told the council that O’Farrell’s proposal was anti-Italian.

“Why don’t you stop picking on Christopher Columbus as though you’re picking on our people,” he said. “We never hurt you. We never wanted to hurt you.”

Backers of the name change spoke of newcomers to the Caribbean and North American enslaving, raping and killing Native Americans. They argued that the human cost has not been accurately described in schools and public life.

“We’ve been erased from education. We’ve been erased from the history books,” said Joseph Quintana, development director for United American Indian Involvement, which supports Native Americans in the Los Angeles area.
